Everything you need to know...

Analog Jazz has been a Northern California favorite for more than decade delighting crowds with some of the best contemporary jazz around. They mix things up with an up tempo to smooth variety of the jazz classics and standards to a smooth, easy-listening experience with a pinch of rhythm & blues. Whatever the occasion, Analog Jazz will deliver the goods. With a wide variety of experience and musicianship, Analog Jazz has been hailed as a personal favorite to thousands of fans from Northern California to Washington D.C. and reaching as far as Australia, England, Japan, Spain, Brazil, and France.

But, what are others saying?

"What a pleasure working with Analog Jazz - A real crowd pleaser and a bunch of real pros."

Boney James - Jazz Musician

"I've work with a lot of bands through the years and Analog Jazz is by far one of the best."

Norman Brown - Jazz Musician

" Analog Jazz are a wonderful group of fellow musicians that was a kick to perform with."

Doug Ellington - Jazz Musician

"Analog Jazz is a group of very professional musicians that gave the 30,000 people attending this year's Christmas services a very good time."

Bob S. - Bayside

"Analog Jazz is one of our Summer Series' favorite bands. They've been with us for five years!"

Tom Huskins - Husky Shows

Meet the boys in the band

Matt Braswell | Saxophone/Vocals

Matt has been playing saxophones for 30 years and his playing style is highly influenced by the in-your-face sounds of R&B funk sax players like Jr. Walker, Lenny Pickett, and David Sanborn but can also slip into a mellow groove ala Grover Washington Jr. or Gerald Albright. Matt has played with many bands over the years and has one album credit with Mic Martin's What is it About You on the One Foot in Front of the Other album which was a great success in Europe in 2005. As a member of Analog Jazz, Matt has opened for Boney James in concert. Matt cut his vocal chops in contemporary worship groups and through hosting karaoke and can cut a lead or find a harmony. Matt prefers the connection with a live audience but is also at home in the studio with his Analog Jazz bandmates.

Leonard Carillo | Upright Bass/Electric Bass

Leonard has been playing since the young age of twelve. He was given the opportunity to take the place of a neighbor in a local band performing in the local scene at weddings and grand openings etc. In his teens, Leonard progressed to touring the US and Europe with a number of recording artists supporting their recordings and broadening his musical reach. His passion is to explore a variety of styles of music from rock, pop, funk, R&B & Jazz. Leonard loves the challenges that the styles bring. His influences are Paul McCartney, Brian Bromberg, to John Clayton.

Dave Eaton | Guitars/Vocals

Dave began playing guitar in the mid '60s and quickly developed an interest in folk music and finger-style guitar. Through the years he grew to enjoy a wide variety of styles that seemed perfectly suited to guitar; rock, blues, pop, big band, Gospel... and of course smooth jazz! Although he is a graphic designer/illustrator by trade, music has always offered an emotional outlet that the visual arts simply cannot provide. At this stage in life, he has found that connection is what matters most: connection to the soul of a musical piece, connection to the audience, and connection to the other players in the band. Analog Jazz feels like the culmination of everything learned and experienced so far.

Chris Jackson | Keyboards / Vocals

Chris has always been a lover a music. Some of his earliest memories include listening to Gospel music in the back of his mom's car on the way to school or spending weekend afternoons listening to The Winans and The O'Jays from his dad's vinyl and 8-track collection . His love of piano started with classical music as a young child and eventually led him to serving as a music director for the Cadet Gospel Choir during his time at the Air Force Academy. Chris' eclectic taste in music expresses itself in his ability to remix and mash-up various styles of music into something new and beautiful and he feels like he's in heaven when he's playing live music with his friends.

Russ Merritt | Drums / Percussion

Russ brings to Analog Jazz a lifetime of musical experience as a professional percussionist for numerous local and national artists. He gravitated toward drums and percussion as a natural expression of his personal artistry and love for music. His sense of classic and modern styles makes him an A-list musician who brings impeccable beat and rhythm to the band. He is essentially a groove machine.
